Skillful Surgery!

Removal of Urinary Calculi by the Knife.
A LUCKY MAN.

Mr. Simeon Tietsell, of Saugerties, N. Y., has been treated for seven years by various physicians for what they call Stricture of the Urethra, without benefit. He finally consulted Dr. David Kennedy, of Rondout, N. Y., who found his trouble to be Urinary Calculi or Stones in the Bladder. The Doctor at once removed the foreign bodies with the knife and then gave his great Blood Specific, "Favorite Remedy," to prevent their reformation. The entire treatment was eminently successful, and Mr Tietsell's recovery was rapid and perfect.

While "Favorite Remedy" is a specific in all Kidney and Bladder diseases it is equally valuable in cases of Bilious Disorders, Constipation of the Bowels, and all the class of ills apparently inseparable from the constitutions of women. Try it. Your druggist has it, and its cost is only one dollar a bottle. The lucky man is he who puts this advice in practice. Don't forget the name and address, Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. The Doctor would have it understood that, while he is engaged in the introduction of his medicine, "Favorite Remedy," he still continues the practice of his profession, but confines himself exclusively to OFFICE practice. He treats all diseases of a chronic character, and performs all the minor and capital operations of surgery.

SENATORIAL GREETINGS AFTER THE CONVENTION.

GOOD FEELINGS ON ALL SIDES.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Senator Conkling appeared in the Senate Chamber today for the first time since the Chicago Convention, looking as fresh and vigorous as if he had not been subjected to the severe strain of the convention. He was immediately visited by his personal friends, Senators Thurman and Eaton, who good naturedly chaffed him, and subsequently a considerable portion of the Democratic party passed in review before him. At Conkling's left was Mr. Hamlin, the champion of Blaine, while the next seat but one was occupied by Blaine himself, the next by Senator Hoar, Chairman of the Convention. Mr. Blaine seemed to have as little concern as any of the group in the exciting events of the last two weeks, and was occupied in the routine business of the day.

THE POLITICAL OUTLOOK.

CONKLING HOPEFUL OF NEW YORK.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—When General Garfield comes here next week, as it is quite probable that he will, he will receive a rousing welcome from his old comrades of the Army of the Cumberland, who are making elaborate preparations to give their old friend and fellow soldier a reception worthy of a man.

Senator Conkling has returned. He bears his defeat easily with his accustomed dignity. He is reported to have said that he considered Garfield, next to Grant, the best possible candidate that could have been selected, and he predicted a Republican majority in New York in November of 50,000 over the united Democrats, but he doubted whether or not the Democracy would be united.

THE PHILADELPHIA COLLECTORSHIP.

The refusal of Secretary Sherman to recommend the re-appointment of Mr. Tutton as Collector of Philadelphia is likely to create intense political feeling in Pennsylvania. Mr. Tutton was supported by both factions in the Pennsylvania delegation at Chicago, and a morning paper here says that in response to telegrams sent to Don Cameron to use his influence to save Tutton, the latter replied that he had no influence with that crowd, meaning the President and the Secretary of the Treasury. The same paper says that Secretary Sherman states that he does not owe McManes anything, and that he certainly had no reason to consider Conkling's feelings.

CONGRESS.

GETTING READY FOR ADJOURNMENT.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—The Postoffice Department, having an increase of nearly a hundred thousand dollars for the free delivery service, special agents of the United States are now engaged in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, and other large cities, examining the wants of the service, in order to recommend what increase of letter carriers is necessary in those places.

DEBATE ON THE MARSHALS' BILL.

Immediately after the reading of the journal the House proceeded to debate the Marshals' bill, two hours being allowed to the Republican and one to the Democratic side. It is understood that when the debate shall have been exhausted a vote will be taken, the Republicans having given assurance, with two or three individual exceptions, that they will not filibuster.

THE SUNDRY CIVIL BILL IN THE HOUSE.

The Sundry Civil bill passed by the Senate yesterday reached the House this morning. There are about a hundred amendments which increase the amount appropriated by the House about two million dollars. Many members think the bill a disgrace and calculated to hurt the Democratic party. The amendments were nonconcurred in, and the bill and amendments were referred to a Conference Committee.

PROPOSED PUBLIC MARINE SCHOOLS.

The Senate passed a bill to encourage the establishment of public marine schools at the ports of Wilmington, Charleston, Savannah, Mobile, New Orleans, Baton Rouge, Galveston and Narragansett Bay.

THE DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

SEYMOUR WILLING TO RUN WITH THURMAN.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—A private letter has been received here from Governor Seymour which has been shown to a number of Southern Senators and members, in which he clearly intimates that if there should be unanimity in the selection of him for the nomination, with Senator Thurman in the second place, he will accept, to unify the party if possible, to insure success.

Judge Davis, of Illinois, in conversation today with a prominent politician of his state, said he was for the nomination of Seymour, and would urge his friends to support him. The drift of Democratic sentiment in Congress is largely in favor of his nomination. The belief is here that he will be the choice of the Cincinnati convention.

GEN. GRANT ON THE NOMINATION.

HE INDORSES GARFIELD AND THINKS THE DEMOCRATS WILL PUT UP SEYMOUR.

NEW YORK, June 11.—In an interview with a World reporter at Milwaukee yesterday, Gen. Grant said the result of the Chicago Convention was a surprise. He felt greatly obliged to those who stood by him so nobly; that Garfield is a strong and good man, and has always been right. He does not think Garfield can carry any Southern state, and thinks Seymour will be nominated by the Democrats.

BANK FAILURE AT NEWARK, N. J.

RUMORS OF IRREGULARITIES.

NEWARK, N. J., June 11.—The First National Bank closed today. The Directors informed the Bank Department at Washington, and applied for the appointment of a Receiver. It has been weak for some months. The immediate cause of the suspension was the refusal of its receiving agent at the New York Third National Bank to honor its drafts for want of funds to protect them. The banks here offered help, but the bank could not give adequate security. The capital $300,000, is believed to be wiped out, but, the deposits and circulation are safe. The last statement in April claimed $62,000 surplus, which, it is thought, was falsely stated. The Cashier, James A. Hedden, sailed for Europe last week on leave of absence and will be recalled by telegraph. Financial circles are excited. There are rumors of irregularities afloat, but the managers are unable to give definite information till the Government examines the report.

OUTRAGE ON THE HIGH SEAS.

AN AMERICAN SCHOONER FIRED ON BY A SPANISH MAN-OF-WAR.

AN OFFICER INVESTIGATES THE VESSEL AND SHE IS ALLOWED TO DEPART.

PHILADELPHIA, June 11.—Messrs. Warren & Merritt's fruit schooner Ella A. Merritt, plying between this port and San Antonio, was fired at on her homeward voyage while upon the high seas, fifteen miles east of Guantanamo and five miles from shore, by the Spanish man-of-war Nuncio. The war steamer first fired a blank shot, in reply to which Captain Rand showed his colors, and before he hove to on the course which he was then running, a second shot was fired, which struck the water, and glancing upward, passed through her rigging. The Ella A. Merritt then lay to and a Spanish officer came aboard, looked around and went over the side. Nothing was said as neither party could speak the other's language. The schooner was then allowed to continue her course undisturbed.

ANOTHER GREAT OIL FIRE.

OIL TANKS STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

A LARGE NUMBER OF BUILDINGS BURNED.

BRADFORD, Pa., June 11.—This morning at 7 o'clock lightning struck a 20,000 barrel iron tank of oil of the Tideout Pipe Company, located on an eminence above Tideout. The oil immediately took fire, and later the fire communicated to another tank of the same size and owned by the same company. At one o'clock the burning oil overflowed and ran down the hillside, consuming everything in its course. The Octave Refinery and Acme Oil Works, one of the largest refineries in the world, is now burning. The oil ran into Oil creek, and threatened the destruction of a large amount of property in the city. Persons residing in the neighborhood have, without their household goods, gone to places of safety. At five o'clock the fire was still increasing, having reached Franklin and Washington streets, and threatened the destruction of the railroad bridge. The fire departments from Corry, Oil City and Warren are in the city in answer to a telegram from the mayor for aid, acting with the fire department of Titusville. At seven o'clock buildings along both sides of Breed street were burning, and about 100,000 barrels of oil. There is great excitement in the city, but the business portion is believed safe, being mostly composed of brick buildings.

LATER.—Another iron tank has burst and set fire to the Franklin-street bridge. The Octave refinery on the north side is now in flames, which are spreading rapidly.

THE GREENBACKERS.

WEAVER AND CHAMBERS MAKE UP THE TICKET.

SOME CURIOUS SPEECHES FROM CURIOUS PEOPLE.

CHICAGO, June 10.—The committee on permanent organization reported Captain Richard Trevelick, of Michigan, for permanent president, Charles E. Litchman, of Massachusetts, secretary, and six assistant secretaries. A delegate from New Jersey moved the substitution of Mr. De La Matyr's name for that of Mr. Trevelick for permanent president, but at the request of the former, the motion was withdrawn and the report of the committee was adopted.

On taking the chair Captain Trevelick thanked the convention for the honor of being chosen "to preside over this large, intelligent, but noisy body," and proceeded to place sergeants-at-arms in the aisles, each with a police officer at his side, with orders to instantly arrest any delegate trying to address the convention when not recognized by the Chair. Under Captain Trevelick's gavel the convention gradually became orderly. At 1:45 a recess was taken until three o'clock.

THE SOCIALISTS.

A memorial was received from the Socialistic party asking representation in the convention, and stating that they controlled 100,000 votes in the country, and desired to make common cause with the Greenbackers against the money powers. A motion to admit forty-four of them was adopted.

MRS. SPENCER AND DENIS KEARNEY HAVE A CONFAB.

Mrs. Spencer of Washington, D. C., spoke in favor of woman suffrage, which brought Denis Kearney to his feet, who said he had received instructions, before leaving California, from his wife, to the effect that she warned him against having anything to do with woman suffragists, and declared that if he had anything to do with them, when he returned, instead of greeting him with a kiss she would greet him with a flatiron.

Mrs. Spencer replied that she was glad to know who was the head of Denis Kearney's family.

NAMING THE CANDIDATE.

The roll of states for the nomination of a candidate for President of the United States was then called. When Colorado was reached, C. P. Budd of that state put in nomination J. B. Weaver of Iowa. When Illinois was reached, S. F. Norton nominated Alexander Campbell of Illinois. Mr. Buchanan of Indiana put in nomination Benjamin F. Butler of Massachusetts, whose name was greeted with cheers. Mr. Buchanan described his nominee as the one man who could Christianize and civilize Massachusetts. An irrelevant cry of "Spoons!" from a delegate brought forth an explanation of Butler's New Orleans record.

A TRIBUTE TO BEN BUTLER.

Mr. Litchman, of Massachusetts, seconded the nomination. Gen. Butler, he claimed, next to Grant, was considered in the South as the man who had stricken the shackles from the hands of four million slaves. He claimed that with Butler the Greenbackers could carry Massachusetts, and so throw the choice of President into Congress, in which the Greenbackers held the balance of power. General Williams, of Missouri, placed the name of Solon Chase, of Maine, before the convention; and Talbot, of Missouri, the name of Stephen D. Dillaye, of New Jersey, who was the nominee of the St. Louis convention for the Presidency. Mr. Fogg, of Maine, seconded the nomination of Chase, as demanded by the voters of Maine, and as the only man who could bring the Greenback party an electoral vote.

BALLOT FOR A PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE.

At 3.25 A. M. it was moved that the Convention proceed to ballot for a nominee for President of the United States. An informal ballot was first taken, the result of which was announced at 4.10. It stood as follows:

Weaver	224½
Wright	126½
Dillaye	119
Butler	95
Chase	85
Allis	41
Campbell	21

Before the announcement of the first ballot it became evident that Mr. Weaver had a clear majority, and all the delegates hastened to change their votes to that candidate. Motions sprang from every portion of the Convention to make his nomination unanimous, and just as the sun shone through the eastern windows the ballot was announced, 713 (total vote) for General J. B. Weaver, and without motion his nomination was made unanimous.

THE VICE PRESIDENCY.

In the midst of a perfect pandemonium of shouting delegates, nominations of candidates for Vice President were made, Gen. Horace B. Sargent of Massachusetts presenting the name of Gen. A. M. West of Mississippi. E. J. Chambers of Texas, the nominee of the St. Louis Greenback Convention, was also put in nomination. On the first ballot Chambers received 403, West 311. Mr. Chambers's nomination was then made unanimous.

WEAVER ACCEPTS.

At 6 A. M., Gen. Weaver came into the hall, apparently fresh after a good night's sleep, and accepted the nomination which a sleepless convention tendered him. He said that, in the most informal manner and relying on Divine Providence, he accepted the trust reposed in him, and promised, in a more formal manner to inform them of his acceptance.

After passing the usual votes of thanks, the convention, at 6.10 A. M., adjourned sine die.

A GOOD WORD FOR GOVERNOR CORNELL.

Governor Cornell, who was chosen a delegate from New York to the Chicago convention, sent his alternate in his place, and remained at home to attend to his official duties. He did well and has gained the approval of the people by his action. The business to which he devoted himself was the consideration of the appropriation bills passed by the late legislature. The constitution of the state permits the governor to veto special items in an appropriation bill without defeating the whole measure. In conformity with this privilege Governor Cornell struck out no less than 100 items from the supply bill, leaving only seven remaining. The amount appropriated by the expunged items was more than $948,000, and the whole amount actually appropriated after these deductions was but $627,000. He had previously saved more than $75,000 to the state by striking out thirteen items from the canal bill, so that the whole saving is more than a million dollars. That was good work. A list of the vetoed items is published. The most important of them are for the erection of armories and other militia expenses and for various asylums in all parts of the state.

FRIGHTFUL WESTERN TORNADO.

A DREADFUL VISITATION IN IOWA.

LOSS OF ABOUT TWENTY LIVES, AND GREAT DAMAGE TO PROPERTY.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia., June 11.—Despatches give particulars of a terrible tornado that swept through the southeastern part of this (Pottawattomie) county on Wednesday night. The storm clouds were first seen forming east and west of Wheeler's Grove, the point where the most destruction occurred, and travelled eastward. The track of the tornado was about a half-mile in width, and swept everything before it, demolishing farm-houses, barns and other buildings, and carrying some of them bodily for hundreds of feet, then dashing them to the ground in pieces.

At one place a farmer's house, surrounded by a board fence, was picked up and then dashed to pieces in the yard, leaving every board on the fence standing in its place. The persons known to have been killed are Jesse Ausler, wife and two children; William Pace, wife and two children killed and another child fatally injured. Alexander Ausler, wife and child were carried in the air nearly a hundred and fifty feet, and seriously injured, the child fatally.

A hired man, name unknown, employed by Ausler, was killed. Some six or eight other persons were killed or carried away and have not yet been found. In all about twenty persons are reported dead or among the missing.

Not a house in the track of the tornado was left standing. The storm did not last fifteen minutes and was unaccompanied by rain.

Doctors from this city, Red Oak and other points have gone to the scene of the disaster and many citizens from Red Oak, ten miles distant, have gone to assist in taking care of the injured and to bury the dead.

There are no railroad or telegraph facilities to the scene of the calamity, and reports are rather meagre as yet.

It is thought the storm struck other points but not with so great force as at Wheeler's Grove.

PERSONALS.

......The estate of the late Mark Hopkins of California is inventoried at $20,000,000.

......Senator Vance of North Carolina is, it is reported, about to be married to a lady of Louisville, Ky. Senator Ransom and "Cerro Gordo" Williams will attend him to the altar.

......Miss Georgia Cayvan has made a hit in the part of Dolly in "Hazel Kirke," at the Madison-square (New York) Theatre. Her performance is said to be unaffected and extremely pleasing.

......Mrs. Mary Jane Rozelle, who recently died in Oswego, N. Y., at the age of 107 years, 7 months, was the second wife of Peter Rozelle, whom she married 71 years ago, and who died in 1861, aged 110.

...... It is proposed by Mr. Ruskin's friends to raise a subscription for a magnificent statue of that author to be placed in the School of Drawing at Oxford—the school which owes its existence to his generosity.

......General Chester A. Arthur has relations with the South through several distinguished Virginia families, with whom he was connected by his marriage with Miss Herndon, of Fredericksburg. She was the daughter of Lieutenant Herndon of the navy, the commander of the Central America.

......Mrs. Garfield is reported to have been called upon by more than 2,000 people at Mentor on Tuesday. The lawn of her pretty home was crowded by eager talkers, and in the drawing-room stood Mrs. Garfield receiving the congratulations of her visitors with great composure, yet with signs of frank pleasure.

RELIGIOUS NOTES.

The average pay of the Protestant Episcopal ministers in the eighty-one Episcopal parishes in Virginia is $304.27.

The will of Samuel Chase of Beverly, Mass., gives $6000 each to the American Baptist Missionary Society and the American Baptist Home Mission Society.

How many, in looking for a church home, and asking themselves, "Where can I get the most good?" ever think of the answer given by the Messenger: "Where you can do the most good."

The Second Baptist Church of Fall River has voted unanimously to extend a call to F. H. Hunt, a member of the graduating class at Newton Theological Seminary, to become their pastor.

The late Michael Malone of Lancaster, Pa., bequeathed $3000 to Bishop Shanahan for the erection of a cathedral, $5000 for the orphanage of St. Mary's Catholic Church of Lancaster, $8000 for the liquidation of the debt of St. Anthony's Church of the same city, and $2000 to the school attached.

The Presbyterian committee for freedmen received the past year $72,225, an increase of upward of $20,500 over the receipts of the previous year. This large increase of funds has been accompanied by such an enlargement of the work as will require at least $100,000 for the ensuing year. Twelve students in Biddle University expect to go as missionaries to Africa.

Reforms in funeral services are making encouraging progress. The editor of the Leader has had occasion to note in recent instances, services that were really "private." "Only the family and special near friends have been invited to be present. The number of carriages has been limited to two, in one case, to three. The presence of neighbors was not asked, and as no public reminder had been given, of course they did not obtrude."

"If Mrs. Hicks Lord," says the London World, "does not revisit these shores it will not be for want of invitations. One of these, from an English lady of title, had a simple naïveté that seems to entitle it to commemoration. The English lady wrote, encouraging the American lady to pay England another visit; begged of her to come and stay with her both in town and in the country; and tendered her services generally, putting the American once again au courant with that phase of modern civilization which we call society. There was a postscript to the letter. It ran thus: 'You have heard, I daresay, that my daughter is going to be married. If you are thinking of sending her a little wedding present, I think she would like diamond stars for the hair best.'"

"IT'S NO USE," HE SAID.

And we do not blame him for saying it. He was sick and in pain; he had been so for months. He had tried physicians' prescriptions and all the nostrums that had been recommended to him. So when a friend came in one night and said: "I have known Dr. David Kennedy's 'Favorite Remedy' actually to cure worse cases than yours," the weary answer was: "It's no use, but I'll try it to please you. Here's the dollar. Go get a bottle." It was done, and in a few weeks there was a new man in that town. In his gratitude he declared: "When I am in Rondout, N. Y., I'll stop in Dr. Kennedy's office and tell him of this.—[Exchange.

The Hartford Courant expects that the Democratic press, if it continues, will charge Gen. Garfield with stealing Charley Ross, with sawing Courtney's boat, with the murder of Mary Stannard and with demanding, as a member of the House Committee on Appropriations, 20 per cent. of the money appropriated before he would give his consent.

One of the vicious little pistols with which inventors have of late been filling toy shops has just barely missed killing a small boy, the projectile apparently being only a wad. As the object of these toys is noise making, and the loudest explosion makes the most popular pistol, there is every incentive to the construction of cartridges that need no bullets to make them dangerous. The coming Fourth of July promises new terrors if the sale of such dangerous little machines remains unchecked.

In the U. S. Senate, Monday, the bill making an appropriation for the erection of a light-house and fog-bell on Whale Rock, at the entrance of Narragansett Bay, was considered as in committee of the whole. It appropriates $35,000 for the purpose of erecting a light-house and fog-bell on Whale Rock, under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury. The bill was reported to the Senate without amendment, ordered to be engrossed for a third reading, read the third time and passed.

The Greenbackers have nominated Gen. James B. Weaver for President. His principal competitors for the honor were Benj. F. Butler, Solon Chase, Hendrick B. Wright and Dillaye; but before the first ballot was completed all the delegations went over to the Iowa Congressman and he was unanimously selected. Gen. Weaver is a strong man and popular in the West, and were he on a better platform would make a good president. B. J. Chambers, of Texas, is the candidate for Vice President. The report of the convention makes a column of funny reading.

The Indian problem will be best solved by educating the red men and treating them as citizens. Just now very encouraging accounts are published of the success of the Carlisle Indian training school, where 176 pupils are now receiving educational and industrial education. In addition to the schools there are carpenter, tinsmith, shoemaker and saddler shops, at which Indian boys are rapidly learning trades, and helping to support their comrades. The tribes represented include the Sioux, Cheyennes, Massahoes, Kioways, Comanches, Poncas, Nez Percés, Wichitas, Seminoles and several others. Many of the pupils are children of noted chiefs, some of whom have recently visited the school, and expressed much satisfaction with the manner in which it is conducted.

The attention of the public has been recently called to the continued issue of fraudulent medical and college degrees. These have mostly come from Philadelphia which seems to have been the headquarters of the swindle. The plan has been in most cases to get a college charter and then without establishing a college proceed to the sale of degrees. The evidence goes to show that many of them have been issued by chartered institutions. The legislature and the Attorney-General have wrestled with the problem, but thus far in vain. The editor of the Philadelphia Record has now secured the arrest of John Buchanan, dean of the American University of Pennsylvania, dean of the Eclectic Medical College of Pennsylvania, president of the National Eclectic Medical Association, and, under the alias James Murray, D. D., dean of Livingston University of America. All these institutions seem to exist merely on paper, though under the cover of law, and appear to have kept up a regular trade in diplomas. The editor of the Record obtained three medical degrees for $75, one from the Eclectic Association; but while the latter was nominally organized in 1879, the diploma is dated 1878. The diplomas testify that the editor, under the assumed name of John Fanning, studied medicine for three years, and passed a satisfactory examination in the seven branches of medicine. Under a different name, and for $150, the editor obtained from the same Buchanan five other degrees—two in medicine, one in divinity, one in civil law and one in both laws. Dr. Buchanan gave his receipt for one of the letters sent to him through the public mail. With this evidence in hand, the editor of the Record, the Philadelphia chief of police and a United States deputy marshal entered Buchanan's place on Wednesday last, arrested him and seized a large mass of diplomas in blank, together with the man's correspondence. As the whole thing is a bare-faced swindle we trust the parties may be made to suffer and the business be broken up.

Since the nomination of Garfield and Arthur the Democrats have shown considerable alarm. They have been made to feel that with Mr. Tilden or any other candidate [illegible] there was not a shadow of success. Some of the leaders have freely confessed that Horatio Seymour is the only man with whom success is at all probable. For a few days past, reports have been industriously circulated to the effect that Mr. Seymour would waive his objections under the circumstances, and consent to become a candidate in order to save the party. But a special from Utica where the ex-Governor resides says that he still resolutely and positively refuses to fill the bill. The Utica Observer, edited by ex-Mayor Gove, an intimate friend of the Governor, says "Governor Seymour has in no way changed or modified his position. He says now as he has said all the time, that he is not and cannot be a candidate, and that he could not accept a nomination even if one were tendered to him. He deems it immoral for any one to enter upon any public office when his health is unequal to the performance of its labors. He alone can judge of this and cannot yield his decision to the opinions of others. He has never anticipated the possibility of his nomination, and has only regarded the mention of his name as one of the incidents which always mark political speculations before the meeting of a convention. In reply to any complimentary allusions to himself, he has always distinctly and clearly stated his purpose to withdraw from an active part in public affairs, although he felt a deep interest in the success of the party to which he was attached. In stating what he says upon this point, we only repeat his own words, since the appearance of the above despatch in the newspapers, and we do so to meet his views and not our own."

THE BICYCLE MEET.

We clip the following from the Bicycling World, which will be read with interest:

We cannot omit to give expression to the universal feeling of grateful appreciation and respect toward the people of Newport. Everyone in the city, from the Mayor down to the sidewalk urchin, treated the visitors with not only courtesy, but kindness. This hospitality and generous reception by the beautiful city and its representatives will long be remembered by the votaries of the swift wheel, and many will wish that the season may soon come round when the meet, larger and better, may be held there again. The league, so auspiciously and enthusiastically organized at Newport, should meet with hearty support throughout the country. At this writing, just one week from its organization, several clubs have voted to join their entire membership, and the Corresponding Secretary will expect to receive one thousand applications for membership before the first of July. The large space given to it in other columns is excuse for editorial brevity at this time; but we shall keep our readers fully informed of all proceedings and the details of administration as fast as they are determined, and bespeak for this League of American Wheelmen the active aid of bicyclers in every locality on this continent.

ABOUT GARFIELD.

"One of the most eminent bishops of the Episcopal Church is a Democrat. When he heard that Gen. Garfield was nominated he took occasion to say that he knew him in the Republic. 'And,' said he, 'I congratulate you upon the wisdom of the convention. Whatever others may do, you may be sure that at least one Democrat will vote for him.' Another clergyman of this city who was a classmate with the General, said: 'I am glad beyond expression that the convention has nominated Gen. Garfield. He is a pure and noble man, and has been pure and noble from his youth up. It would afford me great pleasure to say so publicly on any appropriate occasion. Indeed, I so admire the man and deem him to combine so many elements of true greatness and personal virtue, that I would be quite willing to make a speech in his favor before your club at any time.'"—[Albany Journal.

General Garfield is said to have been a good little reader at three years old, and to have had a remarkable memory, retaining almost verbatim the contents of the books he devoured. As a small boy he often annoyed teachers of limited education by the innumerable questions he asked them. When as a youth he taught school in Ohio he was so poor that he had only one suit, and that of jean. Toward the end of the term, it is related in The Cleveland Leader, the trousers became very thin, and while bending down one day he tore one of the knees nearly around. The chagrined teacher pinned it together as well as he was able, and that night made somewhat bitter complaint to Mrs. Stiles, where he was boarding, in regard to his poverty. "Oh, never mind," said the good woman, "you can go to bed, and one of the boys will bring down your pantaloons and I will carefully darn the hole, so that it will be as good as new. When you get to be President, you will forget all about such little things as that."—[Exchange.

GLEANINGS AND GOSSIP.

An anti-dueling association has been formed at Camden, S. C., the frequency of duels in that vicinity having aroused public sentiment against the practice.

A farmer in Dearborn county, Ind., had a roof 11 feet square come crashing down into his orchard during a tornado, four weeks ago, and has not yet been able to ascertain where it came from, even after diligent inquiry in the track of the hurricane.

The census taker has found and "enumerated" in Oldtown, Me., a youth twelve years old, named Joseph H. Fortier. He is the fifth in succession bearing the same name. A further circumstance is that each of the five was the first born, and all five were born on the first day of April.

An expectant bride was doomed to a terrible disappointment in New York on Wednesday evening. The wedding was to have taken place at her father's house in Fifty-eighth street, at 6 o'clock. The mansion had been handsomely decorated and was filled with merry friends, but hour after hour passed by and the bridegroom came not, and at last accounts no tidings of him had been received, although active search had been made. He had, apparently, up to the last moment intended to fulfil his engagement. He parted from his fiancee on Tuesday evening with tender words, had made complete arrangements with a Jewish Rabbi to perform the ceremony, and on Wednesday morning not only laid out his wedding suit, but sent magnificent flowers to deck the bride's residence. The missing bridegroom is a tobacco broker, 35 years of age. The unfortunate lady is naturally prostrated with grief and mortification.

Regret for the injury which the reputation of General Grant must suffer from the unsuccessful contest for his nomination in the Chicago Convention will be qualified by the reflection that he might easily have saved himself from a humiliating defeat. It will not suffice for him to say that he did or said nothing to promote his candidacy. He did or said nothing to stop the business; and if ever silence gave consent it did so in this case. What was seen to be a mistake by his best friends before the convention met is more clearly a blunder after his defeat.—[N. Y. Post.

FEARFUL ACCIDENT ON THE SOUND.

Loss of the Steamer Narragansett.

RUN INTO BY THE STONINGTON.

Explosion of the Gas Tank.

THE STEAMER BURNED AND GREAT LOSS OF LIFE.

Statement from a Passenger.

The community was startled this morning by a rumor that the large steamer Narragansett, of the Stonington Line, was lost, the news being accompanied in the first dispatch by the statement that no lives were known to have been lost. This was quickly followed to the effect that the loss of life had been terrible, but still without particulars of the disaster.

It was known that the night had been foggy and that there had been a sharp thunder storm, and the imagination was left free for some time to range the probabilities and picture the horrors of the scene. It was not long, however, before our diligent reporter began to gather the facts from various sources and to formulate them for the information of the public.

It appears that the steamers Narragansett and Stonington, both of the Stonington Line, collided somewhere off Saybrook, Conn. The Stonington so struck the ill-fated steamer abreast the boiler that she knocked her over on her side. This caused an

and almost in an instant the flames burst forth with fearful fury. The terror of the scene cannot be described as the crew and two hundred and sixty passengers were thus brought face to face with death. All was confusion and the reign of terror was complete. Men seized women and children in some instances and in order to save them from the flames, and then themselves followed with a fatal leap. The fire burned, unstayed in its progress, until the steamer was reduced to the water's edge when she drifted on to a shoal, where she probably still lies off Cornfield Light.

SAVING THE PASSENGERS.

The steamer City of New York came along and picked up as many persons as possible from the water, but it is impossible to tell how many were rescued. The Stonington also saved a number, but as she was herself badly damaged her efforts in this direction were somewhat crippled.

NEWS FROM THE TRAIN.

A train bound to Providence passed Wickford Junction this morning. One of the cars was fitted up for the surviving victims of the disaster. Our informant could not get the particulars as to numbers or names, but learned that some of those on board had on only their night clothes and such articles as had been gathered by the way.

was not only foggy, but the sea was rough, and there was a terrible storm of wind, lightning and rain, surely a night of horrors.

LATER

A PASSENGER'S STATEMENT.

A News reporter gleaned the following facts from Mr. Charles A. Elliott, of Clinton, Ct., who conversed with a passenger on board the ill-fated steamer. He says the accident occurred off Point Cornfield light at 11.20. The Narragansett was going at a high rate of speed notwithstanding the heavy fog which hung over the sound. This passenger had not retired. He went below and saw two of the officers of the boat and heard one ask the other as to the whereabouts of the Stonington as they usually passed her before that hour. This would go to show that the Stonington was not going at her usual speed but had slowed down on account of the fog. Almost immediately the passenger saw two lights which were right in front of the Narragansett and which proved to be the lights of the Stonington. He immediately ran to his his stateroom. In a moment the steamer was on fire and lit up the sombre scene presenting a spectacle which he will never forget. Instantly the lights on both boats were extinguished and all was confusion. It seems that the gas tanks exploded thus setting the boat on fire. He immediately went in search of a life preserver. The first one he found was minus the strings or ropes which are used to fasten them on to the body. He met with better success the next time and was soon on a life raft. The sea was smooth. In looking back he saw

A SIGHT UNPARALLELED IN HORROR.

Men, women and children, were rushing about and throwing up their hands and imploring mercy from Him who alone could aid them in their dire distress. Strong men were seen to push the women overboard where they could meet an easier death than by being burned alive. The night clothes of many of the ladies were on fire and no one had an opportunity to secure any of their effects. The passenger is of the opinion that by the Stonington and the steamer City of New York. Mr. Elliott was informed at Stonington, this morning, that nearly were on board. The captain and officers behaved splendidly under the trying circumstances, but their efforts to quiet the passengers had little or [illegible] talking to the wind. They were appealed to by mothers to save their children, and by children to save their parents. Many went upon their knees and invoked divine aid.

MANY WERE PICKED UP AND SAVED

STILL LATER.

A special from Providence is to the effect that the loss of life is not as great as at first reported, though no particulars are given.

The occasion of the collision may be in part explained by the fact that during thick weather both boats would be obliged to make Cornfield light in order to get their bearings and would thus be obliged to go over the same course in so doing.

SUNDAY READING.

Religion is more than joy; it is the state of consecration and obedience, out of which joy naturally flows.

I believe the Gospels to be thoroughly genuine, for there shines forth from them the reflected splendor of a sublimity proceeding from the person of Jesus Christ, of so divine a kind as only the divine could ever have manifested upon earth.—[Goethe.

Inner Foes.—Christians sometimes became so much engaged fighting the outward foes of the Church that they forget their own inward conflicts. Almost before they know, uncharitableness, fanaticism, or some other form of spiritual pride has conquered them.—[Nashville Adv.

Primitive Christianity.—What a glow of family heartiness runs through the New Testament! Instead of stiff souls always either dressed for the public eye or shut up in solitude, you have brothers, sisters, friends, who cling to each other by mutual attraction, and between whom the common talk often runs on their conversion, their conflicts, and their glorious foretaste of eternal joy.—[Arthur.

Disputes.—He that will dispute everything at the sword's point, as it were, is like him that was stung by a bee, and being thereby put in a passion, runs himself headlong upon the whole hive to be revenged by turning it upside down. The fire of malicious tongues burns fiercer when we seek to quench it by our too hasty efforts.—[Dr. Arndt.

Slander.—He that thinks every hard word to be a stain on his character which ought to be wiped off, will, by so doing, but render things the worse. Hence it remains that the most effectual way to stop the fury of slanderous tongues is to yield to it at present and patiently wait till time itself shall set things into a better light.—[John Arndt.

Professions.—High professions need careful scrutiny. Counterfeits are most likely to be found in the higher denominations. Only a novice would issue spurious copper, when he could as well send forth false eagles. In religion the same principle holds true. Satan never appears in the guise of moderate piety, for the reason that it is just as easy and far more profitable to ascend at once to the most advanced pretensions. In the former he might be discredited; in the latter men are prone to accept his declaration without challenge. High-sounding professions are felt to be a kind of incontestible evidence of great piety, while, in fact, they are the credentials which need most carefully to be scrutinized.—[N. E. Methodist.

Faith.—A hundred things may happen to us every week in this wicked world, of which our poor weak minds cannot see the reason. Without faith we shall be constantly disquieted and cast down. Nothing will make us cheerful and tranquil, but an abiding sense of Christ's love, Christ's wisdom, Christ's care over us and Christ's management of all our affairs. Faith will not sink under the weight of evil tidings. (Psa. 112: 7). Faith can sit still and wait for better times. Faith can see light even in the darkest hour, and a need-be for the heaviest trial. Faith can find room to build Ebenezers under any circumstances, and can sing songs in the night in any condition. "He that believeth shall not make haste." "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on thee." (Isa. 28: 16: 26: 3).—[Ryle.

A SEASON OF FIRES.

No readers of the newspapers can have failed to notice the frequency of extremely disastrous fires during the past few weeks. For the first three months of the present year, the amount of property burned was comparatively small, being much less than during the corresponding periods of the last four years. Since the first of April, however, the losses from this cause have been unprecedented. The New York Commercial Bulletin has published the amounts of losses over $25,000 of such fires as occurred from April 1st, to May 15th, as appears by its files, from which it appears that in that period there were eighty fires, where the property destroyed was valued at more than $25,000, involving a loss of $8,000,000, exclusive of the $1,000,000 of property lost by the New Jersey forest fires. There have been the usual amount of smaller fires, the estimated loss by which is estimated at $2,500,000. To this sum $1,500,000 is added for losses at unreported fires, making a total of $13,000,000 in six weeks, upon which there was a probable insurance of $7,000,000. Several towns have been utterly destroyed, and in others the loss has been almost equivalent to utter ruin.

Miss Rose Harding, a young lady not yet out of her teens, and who resides in Pittsfield, this state, is winning considerable applause in New York, where she is known in musical circles as the "Queen of Cornetists." She is a pupil of Arbuckle, who is teaching her a concert program for next season, and says she will shortly be competent to fill any engagement offered her. Miss Harding plays every Sunday evening at Carmel Chapel, where throngs are charmed by her sweet music. She has gained such distinction already that her photographs may be seen at any photographic shop in New York. Arbuckle has taken a warm interest in his young pupil, and recently presented her with a silver mouth-piece and a gold-plated "mute." She is also a frequent and always welcome guest at his house.

The English have it that when Emperor William of Germany dies, two emperors will succeed him—one nominal and the other real. When Fritz comes into power the "Emperor Victor" (as she is already called) will really reign for the Crown Princess Victoria is one of the most remarkable persons of our time—a "great Catherine," but with all the virtues which that illustrious potentate despised. When Lord Clarendon had occasion to see the Princess Royal at Berlin just after her marriage (she was then about eighteen), he expressed himself as "more than astonished at the profoundly statesmanlike views of H. R. H.," and at the "comprehensive judgment she passes on the policy of Europe and the duties of a constitutional sovereign." These qualities have matured year by year, and a decisive modification will probably occur in the policy of all Europe when the "Emperor Victor" governs Germany in the [illegible] Wilhelm V." The only trouble with her is that she has a very arbitrary temper, consequent upon which her relations to her husband have been notoriously unpleasant for some years past, and Queen Victoria has had, more than once, to smooth the difference between her daughter and her son-in-law.

FALL RIVER.

Extensive preparations are being made for the out of door party which is to take place on Mrs. Col. Richard Borden's lawn on Tuesday afternoon and evening, June 15. Locomotive and beacon lights will be brought into service to illuminate the elegant grounds, while Chinese lanterns, red fire, etc., will add to the brilliancy of the scene. The 3d regiment band will furnish the music. There will be erected fancy booths, at which will be sold creams, ices, confectionery, etc. With shooting galleries, archery and other amusements, the children, both old and young, are expected to be entertained. Punch and Judy are coming up from Boston Common to attend the fair. The party is to be held under the auspices of the ladies of the Central Church, who take this method of extinguishing their part of the church debt.

Newport's new Mayor, in his inaugural makes special reference to the sewerage and water supply of the city. Would that all Mayors were interested as much in such matters as they are in politics.—[N. Y. Herald.

He that does not teach his son a trade, does the same as if he had taught him to be a thief.—[Rabbi Judah.

EMULSION

COD LIVER OIL!

—WITH—

Pepsine and Quinine

offer this preparation of Cod Liver Oil to the profession, in the confident hope that it will supply a pleasant and efficient medium of administering that invaluable remedy.

It is unnecessary at this date to refer to the very high character which has been borne by the "Caswell Cod Liver Oil" since its first introduction; it is sufficient to state that this oil is used in this new preparation.

The proportion of oil held in the emulsion is fifty per cent.; the finest Turkey Gum Arabic and the purest White Sugar are the other ingredients employed in its manufacture.

The addition of Pepsine and Quinine is made with the view of enabling the most delicate stomach to retain and digest the oil.

None Genuine unless Bearing the Signature of the Proprietors.

WOMAN'S WISDOM.

"She insists that it is more importance, that her family shall be kept in full health, than that she should have all the fashionable dresses and styles of the times. She therefore sees to it, that each member of her family is supplied with enough Hop Bitters, at the first appearance of ill-health, to prevent a fit of sickness with its attendant expenses, care and anxiety. All women should exercise their wisdom in this way."—[New Haven Palladium.

HARD TIMES.

Many people have become mentally and nervously diseased from the depression caused by hard times, and suicides are shockingly frequent. It is cowardly to give way. What is needed is a remedy to purify the blood which has become feverish and foul from wear and tear of brain and nerves. Dr. Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy" goes to the root of the matter. It cleanses the blood, gives tone and strength to the system and cheer and hopefulness to the mind. Its cures are permanent. Try a bottle. Sold by all druggists. Dr. David Kennedy, Proprietor, Rondout, N. Y.

NEW ERA COFFEE!

New Era Coffee is made from White Winter Flint Wheat, by Putnam's patent process of Treating, Steaming, Drying and Roasting.

It is unequalled as a nutritious, healthful and strengthening table beverage, and supplies a want that has long existed. It contains virtues and health producing elements not possessed by tea or coffee; and, unlike tea and coffee, its energizing effects are not followed by reaction.

While all in health are greatly benefitted by its use, it is particularly adapted for those who are obliged to abstain wholly or in part from the use of imported coffee.

One excellent feature of this beverage consists in its freedom from any properties that can injure the most delicate organization. Therefore very young children, even from one year old and upwards, as well as adults, are greatly benefitted and strengthened by its daily use.

A Woman's Friendship.

Can a woman become a good friend to a man without falling in love with him?

This is a proposition which has agitated the ages. Men are fond of saying that there is no such a thing as a platonic affection: they have been accustomed to love, and to be loved, but do they not forget that half—nay, three-quarters, of their life which they owe to the friendship of women?

Women are not as often in love as the novelists and poets claim. The age may have changed them; there are very few women like Eloise, Aspasia, Sappho. The mind or a woman when Homer wrote had nothing to do but to love husband and children, and Byron, who wrote much later, but very much to the same point, cared only for women whose "whole existence" was love.

So on, with many a lesser authority, the romances have no other stock-in-trade than love: they need that element, as a punch needs Arrack, to give their concoction strength; but the great truth of everyday life remains, and the proof exists in the experience of every one of us that a woman can feel an intense friendship for a man, and yet not wish to marry him. Indeed, it is very doubtful whether many women are in love, even with their husbands, after the first year. Does love bear the severe experience of living together? We mean what the poets call love? The friendship which comes after marriage—the mutual trust, helpfulness, forgiveness and constancy—is worth a dozen feverish preferences, but is it love?

No; it has no illusions, as love has; it does not tremble as the beloved object appears; it is not foolish; it does not embrace the coat, the necktie, of the beloved; it does not save his castaway bonbonnieres. There are many better things which it does do; it sacrifices self, health, pleasure—all, to duty, and proves that if "Love went before like a light in the pathway," and that if that light went out, it still illuminated the right way for a woman's guidance. That women are troubled by an undying necessity for loving and being loved, that love is "woman's whole existence," is absurd on the face of it. There is no such absolute passion.

Woman has just as much intellectual taste and ambition as man; when she is interested in her work she forgets all about love and sentiment as much as man does. She is, for instance, also very fond of dress; not to please man alone, but to please herself. She likes to make things, and absorbs herself in the pleasures of construction. She has a thousand resources. The Greek dress was very simple, and might have been run together by a slave. The peplum and the muse's garb—all, in fact, that women wore in early days, must have been of easy workmanship. The hair was dressed with perfect plainness. So women had only the bath to fall back upon, of all the pleasures of the toilet. A belle of today might fill a lifetime by trying to make one French dress, and many women of small means make all their own clothes and yet dress elaborately. The dress of the nineteenth century occupies the whole life of many women. They talk about it far more than they ever talk of love.

Amusements of all kinds have increased. A modern woman has little time to sit and dream. There may be an occasional Clarissa and Lovelace, but they are very semi-occasional. Having nothing to do leads, with a sentimental woman, perhaps, to much foolish dreaming; but in this age no woman need be without something to do. Woman is emancipated in regard to work. She is allowed to do whatever she can do well, and her gentlemen relatives are often very glad to get her checks. So that one of the early conditions of woman's dependence on man is removed.

There comes in, then, this position: a woman must generally have her early love affair. If she marries the person of her first choice, what man ever filled all the exacting requirements of that delirious dream? No man. The disappointment is often intense. Yet enough of love remains to make life interesting, and certainly to keep them together. The strong attachment which remains is not love. There are very few married people who are in love with each other after two or three years of married life.

The happiest marriages are those of two who mutually respect each other, and who began with only friendship, and have improved into something very much like love.

The people who are apt to remain in love a long time are those who, having been disappointed in a first marriage, make a second one, after they have found themselves out, and who fall in love for the first time at forty years of age, or thereabout.

We do not know ourselves when we are very young—we do not know what we want; and the delusions of first love are manifold; few, if any of them, lead us aright.

Therefore, most women get to do without love. The heart once severely disappointed, as all very expectant hearts must be in this world, retires into a corner, the passions go to sleep, and the brain remains master of the situation.

A woman is thus fitted to be the very best friend that a man can have. She is bright, intelligent, sympathetic; she has the complement of a man's nature in hers. She cannot be his rival, for her strength is less; but she may be his supplement. She at least can give him what we all need—sympathy. She is without doubt the superior of man in one sense—she is more delicate, less sensual, and more religious by nature. She holds to the unseen by finer filaments, but as strong in their way as iron. She has a certain inspiration and belief which he has not, but to which he looks when illness or disappointment has soured and weakened him.

A woman in her turn is glad to have a man-friend, not as a protector or a husband, but far outside of these original and single relations. She is glad to enlarge her mind by contact with a larger mind; to read, to study, think and correspond with one who is of all persons, perhaps, the nearest likeness to some ideal mind of which she has dreamed. The man himself may be as personally disagreeable to her senses as was Mr. Casaubon to Celia in "Middlemarch" but his friendship is very dear to the woman who knows how good and how great he is.

We do not always like to breakfast with the man whom we most respect. We can know and like many men with whom we are by no means in love. We can be in love with but very few.

There are some women who have never been in love in their lives. They are sweet and good women; but Love forgot to touch them with his wing. These are not the women of the poets; they are not the highest order of women; they are not Eloise; but they are very good friends; they have the feminine grace; they are conservative; they make home happy; they are the women to whom men can confide their secrets.

And in America, where, for the first time, women have had a chance to live out their life without unsexing themselves, there is no doubt but that the intellect is far ahead of the heart. Women are very happy without love in America, and in the nineteenth century. They go on their way rejoicing, dressing, dancing, visiting, shopping, writing, reading, painting, wood-carving, studying music, finding life not long enough. There are fewer hours in the day, and less than seven days in the week to such busy women. They may read a love story or a poem now and then, but ten to one they call it "bosh." They speculate in Wall street; they think only of the material side of life. Yet they are woman still, and delicate women, and very good friends.

A woman's friendship is always more partial and more intense than that of a man. It has one illusion of love; it is, fortunately, ignorant of much of a man's life, which to another man would be known, and which might tend to disillusion. There is no love and no friendship which is worth anything that has not some illusion, and the reason why marriage is often so unhappy is that illusions are rudely shaken. A woman must find out the defects of character in that relation. Her hero may not be more selfish, or meaner, or less generous, or less [illegible] than other men, but if he have a tache of human infirmity she sees it, feels it, just in proportion to her adoration and her former belief in him. There is no man so great, so good, so pure, or so honest as the woman who is in love with him believes him to be.

A woman often selects her male friends through accident rather than choice, just as she accepts a husband, rather than selects one. A man comes to her as relative, or as the friend of her friend. She is made almost unknowingly his confidant. She is the person to whom he speaks of his hopes, his failures, and his successes. She finds herself, without intending to be so, the recipient of his love affairs with other women, and she is certainly not in love with him if she can hear a man talk of something so outside of herself. Many a woman has been the best of friends to a man in this capacity. Her own inherent delicacy, tact, and sense come to the assistance of his less keen instinct, for when a man is led by a strong passion he is often the blindest and most blundering of human beings.

There are few if any instances of a friendship between a man and a woman which have commanded the attention of the world that have not had some great principle as a guiding star. That of Jerome and Paula is, perhaps, the most world-renowned. Religious fervor and zeal united them in the closest bonds, and yet they had no love for each other; no scandal dogged their pure footsteps. All the great men of history had some friend who was not a lover, yet who was, perhaps, nearer and more important in one sense than a thousand loves.

The French proverb says that "One must kiss while one must hold the cheek." It has sometimes happened that a man has loved a woman who had but a friendship for him, and vice versa. These mixed friendships, where one side was love, have brought discredit on the purest flower that blossoms out of Paradise, and have given rise to all the sarcastic things said upon this great, important and most interesting subject.

We have only to go over in our own minds the innumerable conditions of our own civilization, where we see the men and women who are doing the work of the world together with a profound indifference to each other's charms as individuals, but with a profound interest in each other's work, to realize that men and women can be friends.

They are the best of friends. It is not well for women to live only with women, or for men to live only with men. Each one grows selfish, narrow, and peculiar. The proper friend for a man of science, literary eminence, and political aspiration is a woman. The proper friend for a woman of elevated mind and character is a man. Neither may wish, even if fate, fortune, or the absence of marital ties would allow them to do so, to marry; but they can enjoy a friendship which should have no equal.

The fact that women are not lovelorn creatures; that they have no necessity of falling in love; that they are indeed, less, much less, in danger of falling under the power of this passion which is said to rule the world than men, begins to dawn upon the philosophers.

So long as men shut women up in a Turkish harem, what had they to do but to fall in love? What had they to do for a long time after, when, even under puritan rule, the subject of love was spoken of only under the breath and with blushing cheek? It was the folly of society to thus make love hidden, forbidden, secret and solemn. A young girl had scarcely a chance to consider the matter in a healthy light. Even now sensible parents are often to blame in trying to keep away the subject of love from their daughters. Whilst wishing them to marry, they still are very curiously and abnormally making the footsteps of love a crime. There is nothing sweeter, more natural and more beautiful than that two young creatures should love and marry. The only pity is, and "pity 'tis," 'tis, true," that marriage, particularly to a woman, is so often a terribly unhappy and disappointing thing.

It is doubtless a great conservative of the power of loving and of desiring love to have suffered disappointment. To always dream of a possible happiness makes that fancied happiness seem greater than any real happiness ever is.

But either the race of sentimental women have died out, or the age has repressed them. We see very few women now who are troubled about love. They are only cool, happy, unimpressionable individuals. The romantic, dreaming girl is almost as extinct as the Dodo.

But as for good friends, they are innumerable. There is nothing more frequently tried, nothing so much sought for, nothing so loyal, constant and brave, nothing so safe in sickness or in health, in disaster or prosperity, as a true woman's friendship.—[M. E. W. S.

J. A. WILLIAMS, the original, is ready to take and fill orders for this style of pictures at his room, No. 1 Touro Block, Bellevue avenue, Newport, R. I. The Artotype process is good enough to satisfy the most exacting and will for this reason receive opposition from none but those who will have lost all opportunity to benefit by its immense advantage. The Artotypes are far superior to Silver Prints or old style Photo made from the same negative with the additional merit of being as permanent as a steel engraving. Artotype is a name given by the proprietor of a patent for printing by means of a process in fatty inks and in colored inks. The price of photo in silver I will take for about one half of the old process or less than any other Photographer charges for the same style of work. J. A. W. ag
